

THINNING OF FUSE PASSIVATION AFTER C4 FORMATION

Abstract of Disclosure

A method of forming a fuse structure in which passivating material over the fuse has a controlled, substantially uniform thickness that is provided after C4 metallurgy formation. A laser fuse deletion process for the fuse formed by this method is also disclosed.

Figures